Introduction:

You are being asked to participate in a research study. The purpose of this form is to provide you with information that may affect your decision as to whether or not to participate. Your participation is entirely voluntary, and you can refuse to participate at any time without penalty.

What is this study about & why is it being done?

You are being asked to be in a research study on an online program, called the Parenting Young Children Check-up (PYCC), to improve the behavioral health of children because you are a parent with a child ages 2-5 years old and report some child behavioral health challenges on a screener today. This study is being conducted at Wayne State University, Wayne Pediatrics.

What will I do and how long will it take?

If you take part in the study, you will be asked to complete some questionnaires today. Next, you will be put into one of two groups. Each group will have 20 parents in it. Group 1 you will learn about the PYCC today, start receiving text messages, and have access to the PYCC website right away. Group 2 will get these same opportunities in 3 months. You will also complete online surveys one month and three months from today so we can assess the impact of the PYCC program and get feedback and suggestions.

What are the possible benefits of participating in this study?

The possible benefits to you for taking part in this research study are gaining information about parenting to promote your child's best behavior.

In addition to these direct benefits, your participation in this study may generate information that could benefit other people now or in the future.

What are the risks and discomforts of participating in this study?

The risks to participating in this study are similar to risks encountered in everyday life. These risks include:

- Emotional risks (e.g., feelings of sadness or anxiety): You may feel uncomfortable answering some of the questions about you or your child. You may also not find the Parenting Young Children

Check-up resource to be helpful and may feel you need additional help to manage your child's behavior.

- Possible loss of confidentiality: there is a chance your data could be seen by someone who shouldn't have access to it. We're minimizing this risk in the following ways:
 - We will remove all identifiers after downloading the data from the online system we use to collect questionnaire responses.
 - We will store all electronic data on a password-protected, encrypted computer.
 - We will keep your identifying information separate from your research data, but we will be able to link it to you. We'll destroy this link after we finish collecting and analyzing the data.

Will there be any cost to me?

There will be no costs to you for participation in this research study.

Will I be compensated for participating in the study?

For taking part in this research study, you will be paid for your time and inconvenience. After participating today, you will receive $50 through Tango cards. Tango is an online system that allows you to choose a gift card with the money you receive. You will also receive $50 in Tango Cards if you complete the follow-up questionnaires in one month and in three months.

Will my information be confidential?

You will be identified in the research records by a code name or number.

Will my data be used for future research?

In accordance with scientific norms, the data from this study may be used or shared with other researchers for future research (after removing all personally identifying information).

Do I have to participate?

Taking part in this study is voluntary. You are free to not answer any questions or withdraw at any time. Your decision will not change any present or future relationships with Wayne State University or its affiliates.

Who do I contact if I have questions?

If you have any questions about this study now or in the future, you may contact Dr. Lucy McGoron or a member of the research team at the following phone number [313-664-2500] or email [Lucy.K.McGoron@wayne.edu].

This research has been reviewed and approved by an Institutional Review Board (IRB). If you would like to speak with someone other than a member of the research staff, or wish to share feedback privately with the IRB about your research experience, call the Research Participants' Advocate at (313)577-1628 or email irbquestions@wayne.edu. You are encouraged to contact the IRB if:

- Your questions, concerns, or complaints are not being answered by the research team.
- You cannot reach the research team.
- You want to talk to someone besides the research team.
- You have questions about your rights as a research participant.
- You want to get information or provide input about this research.

Participation:

By completing the questionnaire, you are agreeing to participate in this study. This includes permission to allow researchers to use your data for future research as described in the “Will my data be used for future research” section of this form.

The data that you provide may be collected and used by Qualtrics Survey System, the Computerized intervention Authoring System (CIAS), and Tango Cards as per its privacy agreement. Additionally, participation in this research is for residents of the United States over the age of 18; if you are not a resident of the United States and/or under the age of 18, please do not complete this survey.
